Museum Tour Programs

"A Kentucky Journey" introduces students to Kentucky history as they place artifacts and other primary sources on a timeline that corresponds to the Center for Kentucky History's main exhibition, A Kentucky Journey. Classes tour the 20,000-square-foot exhibition on their own after the introduction, encountering walk-through environments and interactive displays.

15 minutes, grades P-8, up to 100 students per half hour, year-round

"Civil War Workers" transforms students into soldiers and ammunition factory workers through hands-on activities from marking to cartridge-making. By participating in these historical activities, students explore ways that communication, technology, and occupations have changed over time.

90 minutes, grades 4-5, maximum 50 students per program late fall-winter

"Old State Capitol" guided tours feature the building and the events that occurred in it. Students learn about 19th-century government by examining a legislator's saddlebag and taking part in a mock vote in the Senate.

45 minutes, grades P-12, up to 100 students per hour, year-round

"Pioneer Life in Kentucky" immerses students in frontier family life through the frontier section of A Kentucky Journey and hands-on activities that explore cloth production, home remedies, and games.

90 minutes, grades P-5, maximum 50 students per program, late fall-winter.

"Primarily Lincoln" introduces students to Abraham Lincoln's life and Kentucky connections through the rich primary sources in the temporary exhibition Beyond the Log Cabin. Students gather data from artifacts, manuscripts, images, and other sources, and then test their knowledge in a quiz game.

60 minutes, grades 4-5, maximum 50 students per program, November 2008-April-2009
